TO INCREASE SALOON TAX.

COUNTY COURT'S PLAN OF RAISING ADDITIONAL REVENUE.

Deficit Caused in County Road Fund by the Spofford Bill May Be Overcome by Raising Saloon Licenses to $800.

Soon after the county court was called to order yesterday the attendant court officials were dismissed and the court went into ex-The court and Couselor Reed remained in consultation for some little time and discussed the probability of the passage of the Spofford bill, now pend in the legislature. The court intends to defeat the measure if possible, under the claim that the division of one-third of the dramshop fund from the general reve fund will cripple the county financially. What conclusion the court came to in the matter is not known, but it was given out incidentally after the session that should the hill pass revenue would have to be raised by some other method than by an increased valuation by the assessor.

The method which the court intends to bring to bear is to raise revenue by raising county licenses. The present saloon license is $500 a year, or $550 every six months. Chapter 56, section $655, under the caption of licenses, gives the county court the power to raise licenses to $800 yearly or exact from saloonkeepers $400 every six months. This, members of the court ly. What conclusion the court came to in or exact from sationneepers 400 every six months. This, members of the court claim, if put in operation will offset any-thing taken away from the general reve-nue fund by reason of the passage of the Spofford bill. The court clearly intends to defent the bill in the senate, if possible, but should the measure pass, radical steps will be taken to raise the revenue.

They are said to give a delightful, novel entertainment. They are really Lilliputian athletes and midget comedians, whose versatility and intelligence will compare favorably with any artist in their profession. Perfect in form, and with handsome features, they are attractive to anyone, and must be so especially to ladles and children. Twenty high class artists are promised in the programme.

The engagement of Mr. and Mrs. Whytal at the Auditorium closed last night. The house will be dark the remainder of the week.

been unprogressive in the matter of ora-torio music. Among the features that will be welcomed by those who have waited long for a good mixed chorus will be two cantatas. The chorus numbers sixty well selected and well trained voices, the re-hearsals having demonstrated the fact that a very superior entertainment will be given. "My Friend From India," the new and suddenly popular comedy by H. A. Du Souchet, will be given here for the first time at the Coates opera house Monday night. Theosophy may have a mysterious interest to those who find all mythology interesting; but there is nothing mysterious in the extravagant capers of a timid barber arrayed in the royal insignia of the yellow robe and bearing a towel and washbowl as "My Friend From India," assisting at a social function in New York as one of the learned "Order of the Yellow Robe of India." Even the New York Theosophical Society joined in the laughter provoked at their expense. Social satire that shows up one's absurdities and turns our follies wrong side out is always amusing. And people enjoy it none the less when it carries with it the humorous ups and downs of young lovemaking. When all this is presented by an organization having the reputation of the Smyth and Rice comedy company, there is no room for cavil on the part of the playgoer. The park board held an unusually lengthy meeting yesterday afternoon and awarded a number of large contracts for park improvements. Stanfield & Lake will park improvements. Stanfield & Lake will build the Holmes square shelter house at a cost of $4.800. ARCHITECTS GENERALLY FAVOR A RESTRICTED COMPETITION.

It Is Proposed That the Successful Competitor Shall Make a Donation to the Building Fund Equal to His Profit.

The architects of Kansas City have shown themselves willing to aid, as far as in their power lies, in the building of the proposed auditorium or convention hall, The gift of Mr. Askew of the site for the building had hardly been made public before one architect generously offered to donate the plans and now many of the leading architects of the city have signified their willingness to enter into a competition under proper restrictions and with thoroughly capable judges, the successful competitor, while not engaging to do the work for Celebrated for its great leavening strength and healthfulness. Assures the food against alum and all forms of adulteration common to the above broaders. nothing, might make such a liberal contri-bution towards the building fund that the ROYAL BAKING POWDER Co., New York ost of this part of the work will be ma-

A reporter for The Journal yesterday interviewed a number of architects along this line and all said they would be willing to enter into a competition, surrounded by proper safeguards and restrictions. Some were inclined to favor a competition by the board of trustees, while others favored making it a competition open to all the legitimate architects of Kansas City. Mr. W. C. Root said: "If the competition could be arranged on a proper basis, placed in the hands of competent experts as judges and limited to a certain number of architects to be designated in advance, I would be in favor of the plan. Let me be understood, however, as saying that the work should be paid for at the regular rates. In the first place there should be not less than three prizes for the competition to remunerate those who may not be successful, so that they can afford to devote time and care to the preparation of the plans. Then the committee should award the work to the successful competitor at regular rates and I undertake to say that there is not an architect in Kansas City who would not be willing to make a liberal donation which would practically amount to his profit. To ask an architect to do the entire work free would be asking him to make a disproportionate subscription." terially lessened. A reporter for The Journal yesterday in amount to his profit. To ask an architect to do the entire work free would be asking him to make a disproportionate subscription."

George Mathews said: "Open competitions as a rule are not desirable or satisfactory in their results, but I can see no objection to a competition of the kind proposed if properly managed. There should certainly be cash prizes to stimulate architects to do their best and the competition should be open to all Kansas City architects. There would, I think, be little danger of the work being awarded to an incompetent architect if the right kind of judges are named, which they would have to be before the leading architects would enter the competition at all."

Charles A. Smith, of Hackney & Smith, said: "It would depend entirely upon the basis on which it is proposed to have such competition whether we would be willing to enter. If the trustees would place the matter in the hands of a recognized expert, men whom the competing architects would have confidence in, then I see no objection to the competition. Such a competition certainly should result in securing the very best the architects have to offer."

Mr. F. R. Hamilton said: "Idon't believe in such competitions, simply because experience has taught me that usually they are far from satisfactory. If the competing architects in this instance are to take their reward in glory, then I don't believe their ward in glory, then I don't believe their found in the hands of the right kind of men."

Mr. Gunn, of Gunn & Curtiss, said: "We haven't thought of entering such a competition, but if the plan is proposed and properly presented I can see no reason why we should not. Such a competition would have to be conducted on a fair plan, under the most equitable methods to be acceptable to most of the architects. I believe the architects of Kansas City will be found willing either in
